

The Dangerous Truth About Today's Marijuana: Johnny Stack's Life & Death Story

Join us free, via zoom:
Tuesday, September 14, 2021
6:00 PM-7:30 PM

Laura Stack is a bestselling author of eight books on productivity and performance topics. On November 20, 2019, Laura suddenly lost her 19-year-old son, Johnny, to suicide. He suffered from delusions from marijuana-induced psychosis and thought the mob was after him. As a suicide loss survivor, Laura's platform now brings marijuana education around the globe to raise awareness of THC use, mental illness, and suicide. Laura helps parents understand and talk to their children about the potential harms of today's marijuana. She is determined to educate about the connection between marijuana and mental illness and get adolescents to #StopDabbing.

To register click here or scan QR code:

This program is brought to you by a group of Local Prevention Councils that want to help their communities make healthy choices. All are welcome.

Durham Middlefield
New London
Colchester

Old Saybrook
Guilford
Clinton

Haddam-Killingworth
Tri-Town
East Haddam